Transparency Statement on Human Trafficking and Modern Slavery (the "Statement") (in compliance with Section 54(1) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015)

Portmeirion Group is a purpose-driven business with heritage and family at our core. We have a responsibility to our employees, customers, communities and the people that bring our products into their homes, and we work hard to reflect this in everything we do.

Portmeirion Group PLC and its subsidiary companies are committed to preventing acts of modern slavery and human trafficking within its business and supply chains, and expects the same high standards from its suppliers. While we are confident that the risk of slavery and trafficking within our Group and supply chain is low, we recognise that modern slavery can take many forms and so we continue to regularly evaluate and, where necessary, try to reduce the nature and extent of our exposure to the risk within our business. We aim to operate in a sustainable and ethical way for our people and communities as we believe this is not only the right thing to do but it is also critical to the long term health of our business and the world we operate in.

This Statement details the measures taken by Portmeirion Group PLC, which includes our U.K. operating subsidiaries Portmeirion Group UK Limited and Wax Lyrical Limited, to prevent modern slavery within our business and supply chains for the financial year ending 31 December 2023. This is our sixth Modern Slavery Act Statement.

1. Our business and supply chains

We are a U.K. public limited company with a global presence in the homewares sector. We are the ultimate parent company of the Portmeirion Group, directly employ around 800 people worldwide and sell into over 80 countries. Our largest operations are in the U.K. where we employ around 656 people and in the US and Canada where we employ around 138 people. Together with the products that we produce in our own factories within the U.K., we work with a range of suppliers to design, manufacture, package and transport our products around the world. There have been no structural changes since our last statement.

2. Assessing and managing the risk

2.1 Our policies

Our vision to be a leading force in the global homewares sector will only be achieved through a culture of honesty, integrity and openness and by respecting human rights and the interests of our employees, customers and all other stakeholders. We promote an open culture in the business achieved from effective employee engagement, people development and diligent resource management. We are a caring employer with an excellent health and safety record, fair and balanced equality policies, a wide diversity in our workforce and management structures and a consultative approach with our people. The Group has policies which set out our expectations and requirements and support our commitment to combat modern slavery; these include those on diversity and inclusion, harassment and bullying, recruitment, anti-bribery, whistle-blowing, work-life balance and flexible hybrid working.

2.2 Supply chain

We recognise that some of the geographical areas in which our suppliers are located may be regarded as high risk locations but where this is so, we believe that we have mitigated those risks. We have a Supplier Code of Conduct ("Code of Conduct") which requires that employment should be freely chosen and that forced, bonded or child labour cannot be used. Our Code is based on the Base Code of Labour Practice of the Ethical Trading Initiative ("ETI") which itself is based on the standards of the International Labour Organization ("ILO"). Our product supplier contracts contain, as standard, binding clauses enforcing our Supplier Code of Conduct and retaining our right of audit and inspection of our product supplier's premises and records. Our Code aims to ensure that international human rights standards are respected at all our supplier's sites. If issues are found in supplier audits, our initial goal is to work with the suppliers to bring their practices into compliance.

Compliance with the Code of Conduct is reviewed using a tailored questionnaire that complements our Code and is supplemented with visits to suppliers' premises by our staff or representatives. We continue to have external SMETA 4 pillar audits on all of our product suppliers to ensure they are working within ETI guidelines. These audits are carried out every two years. Sedex Members Ethical Trade Audit ("SMETA") is the audit procedure created by the Sedex membership which is a compilation of good practice in ethical audit technique. The Supplier Ethical Data Exchange ("Sedex") is a not-for-profit, membership organisation that leads work with buyers and suppliers to deliver improvements in responsible and ethical business practices in global supply chains. The SMETA 4 pillar audit consists of four key pillars: Labour Standards, Health & Safety, Environment and Business Ethics and is based on both international standards and ILO conventions.

2.3 Employment practices and training

Our global recruitment and employment practices contain measures to ensure there is no forced labour. These measures include:

- due diligence checks on U.K. recruitment agencies;
- background checks in relation to new starters to our business relevant to the jurisdiction they will be working in;
- encouraging employee vigilance to the risks and signs of modern slavery and human trafficking and to report any instances or suspicions using the procedures set out in our Whistleblowing Policy as soon as they arise; and
- training of relevant colleagues, particularly in HR and management functions, to ensure they are equipped to identify and recognise any potential instances of modern slavery. Training is conducted formally through online training and assessments as well as through on-the-job mentoring.

2.4 Due diligence

In 2023, the Group conducted an exercise on its legal documentation to incorporate modern slavery provisions, thereby strengthening our compliance with the Modern Slavery Act 2015. Specifically, we revised our contractual templates for negotiations with suppliers and recruitment agencies. Additionally, to uphold our commitment to preventing acts of modern slavery and human trafficking, we distributed a Modern Slavery letter on Anti-Slavery Day in October 2023 to our sourced product suppliers and active recruitment agencies to highlight the issue and reinforce our expectations regarding the prevention of modern slavery in our recruitment and supply processes.

The Group reserves the right to request evidence of compliance with our policies and Code of Conduct and to carry out audits at any time having given reasonable notice.

2.5 Engagement

The Board is committed to engagement with our stakeholders to deliver better outcomes for our business and all people who come into contact with it. The Board considers all stakeholders in its decision making. Further detail of this engagement and outcomes is available in our Section 172(1) Statement which we publish each year in our Report and Accounts for Portmeirion Group PLC; available on our website at https://www.portmeiriongroup.com/investors/reports-and-presentations.

3. Grievance mechanisms, reporting & action

Whistleblowing is an effective way of identifying risks of modern slavery. Our Group Whistleblowing Policy applies to employees, contractors and anyone else acting on Portmeirion Group's behalf. If a report of actual or suspected modern slavery is made, we would conduct such investigations that we could reasonably do including, where required, liaising with law enforcement officials. Our Global HR Director and Group Company Secretary are available for all employees, contractors, suppliers and other stakeholders to confidentially raise concerns in relation to improper, unethical or illegal practices and can be reached at whistleblowing@portmeiriongroup.com. We are committed to dealing with all whistleblowing reports and ensure those who raise concerns are protected from retaliation.

We do not tolerate any slavery or human trafficking within our business. If we find evidence of slavery and/or human trafficking in our supply chain, we will immediately seek to terminate our relationship with the relevant supplier and will liaise with law enforcement as required.

During 2023, we continued our employee training and awareness programme in informing them of the appropriate actions to take if they suspect a case of modern slavery or human trafficking. No instances of modern slavery were identified or reported.

4. Looking Ahead

In May 2023, Portmeirion Group launched its new sustainability strategy and roadmap, Crafting a Better Future. One of the strategic commitments is 'Nuturing the Best' which includes: (i) ensuring equity, diversity, inclusion and opportunities for all colleagues across our global business, and equiping all our managers with the development tools to promote this; and (ii) improving supply chain transparency and supporting our suppliers in applying Portmeirion Group people principles across our value chain including opportunities for training and Health, Safety and Environment practices. These commitments will support our commitment to reducing the risk of modern slavery. More detail can be found at https://www.portmeiriongroup.com/sustainability

Whilst we are proud of our continued efforts to support and protect the human rights of every person involved in our operations and our supply chain, we are not complacent to the risks and look to highlight awareness as far as practical. This year, we intend to again mark Anti-Slavery Day in October 2024, sending out tailored communications to employees and sourced product supplier to help them understand and spot the signs of modern slavery and human trafficking.

We believe that Portmeirion Group is effective in combating modern slavery and human trafficking within our business and supply chains through our approach to supply chain management and in promoting awareness of the issue and a transparent culture with our employees.
